

WISHYWASHINGTON, LONDON'S NAME FOR GRAPE JUICE FEEDS

British Press Pokes Fun at Bryan Style of "Dry"
Diplomatic Dinner.

MISSOURI SHIES AT IT.

But Belva Lockwood Says It's Safe and Does Not Leave
One "Heady."

WASHINGTON, April 19.—"Wishywashington" is apt to become the title of the capital of the United States during the Wilson Administration, in the opinion of the Pall Mall Gazette, commenting on the grape-juice dinner given by Secretary of State Bryan.

"Official life in Washington under the Wilson-Bryan regime holds out little prospect of gaiety," the editorial says to-day. "We fear that the capital of the great Republic is destined to be known as 'Wishywashington'."

Bryan's dinner given in honor of the British Ambassador has become the subject of an international incident by reason of it being served without wine.

Commenting seriously upon it, the Daily Express referred to Bryan's policy as "Proletarian Diplomacy," and said that as a State Minister he had no right to enforce his abominable ideas on his guests. The diplomat, said the Express, had no choice, since to refuse the Secretary's invitation would have involved him in the suspicion of international courtesy. Bryan, said the editorial, had no right to do, as Secretary of State, what he could very well have done as a private citizen.

MISSOURI LOCKWOOD APPROVES THE GRAPE-JUICE DIPLOMACY.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—"Grape-juice diplomacy is a safe and sane policy and it does not leave one 'heady' in the morning. Washington is gay under the Wilson Administration. We should worry about London criticisms of Bryan's 'Proletarian Diplomacy'."

She was the "dollar diplomacy" of other regimes," she declared. "Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan are both to be congratulated for their grape juice doctrine. It is safe and in time will be approved by the world. Men who have the responsibilities of running such a great government as this must get up early, get up early, and attend to their duties with a clear head."

Belva Lockwood said at a banquet she attended in London the toastmaster started the banquet by announcing that all who wanted wine would have it for it. The result was, she said, that "we got grape juice and no wine."

"Mr. Bryan only followed London precedents in serving grape juice," Mrs. Lockwood concluded. "Those who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones." CONGRESSMAN FROM MISSOURI SPEAKS FOR THE THIRSTY.

Representative Barthold of Missouri, who for years has led a campaign to suppress the saloons in the army, said that he had, particularly a Secretary of State, had no right to tell his guests whether they could take a drink or not.

"I deeply regret that the question of whether a man shall take a drink of wine with his dinner should have become a state matter," he said. "It is a question all gentlemen should decide for themselves. Why it's hospitality with a string tied to it, and that's the American way. Mr. Bryan is forcing his personal views on officials whom he is entertaining as a Secretary of State."

"That's improper. No host should force his private opinions on his guests, especially when it makes for their discomfort. The foreign diplomats, of course, are not in a position to criticize, but I'll bet they have some peculiar thoughts."

"They come from a station in life where gentlemen take a glass of wine with their dinner. 'Dollar Diplomacy' of the Republican regime was the target of criticism, but 'Grape Juice Diplomacy' I fear, will be much less effective, so far as our national prestige is concerned."

BRYAN'S STAND NOT COPIED AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

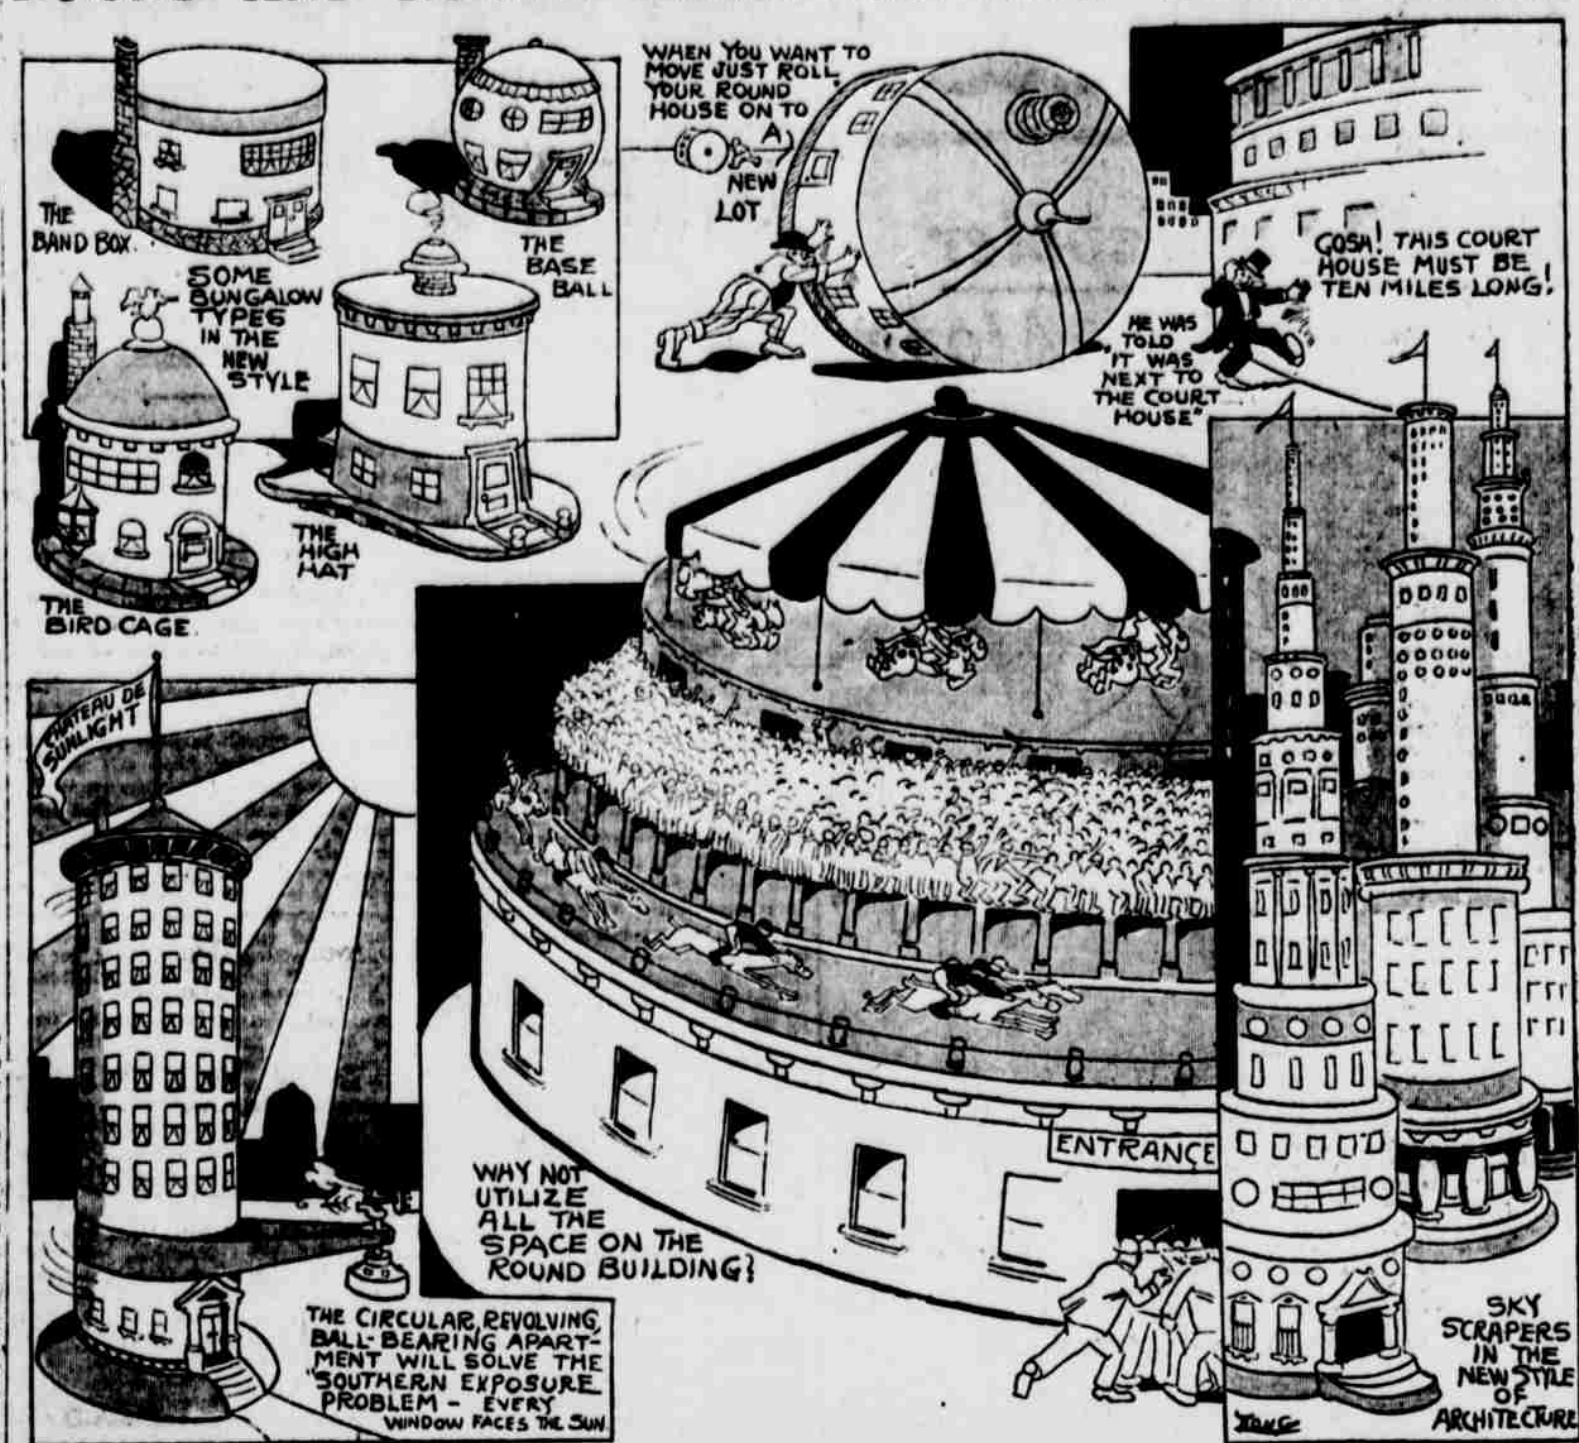

The fact that Secretary of State Bryan has taken the stand that all of the state dinners while he occupies his present portfolio will be "dry affairs" will establish no precedent for the Wilson Administration. President Wilson considers that in matters of statecraft as well as of private affairs the wishes of those concerned should be paramount. He has given no formal sanction, the dinner to the Cabinet at the White House, and there was nothing to distinguish it from all other functions that have preceded it in this historic edifice.

There was the usual service of wines with the various courses and the Cabinet members drank or refused as they pleased. And it was believed here that the only "dry" dinner, so far as beverages are concerned, will be the various functions that are necessary for the Secretary of State to give.

TARIFF DEBATE TAKES FORM OF SCHOOL SESSION

Congressman Moore With His Little Primer Introduces Novelty—Hits Democrats.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Representative J. Hampton Moore, Pennsylvania Republican, introduced a novelty during the tariff debate in the House to-day and for the first time in the history of Congress, so far as known, a speech on the tariff was delivered by the reading of questions from the Speaker's rostrum and the delivery of replies from the floor.

Mr. Moore's speech was a "tariff primer" following the lines of Plato's Republic in form. He sent to the desk a set of queries which the clerk presented to him and Mr. Moore, in his answers, ran the gamut of tariff legislation and tariff dogma.

"When was the first tariff passed?" asked the clerk.

"The first act passed was a tariff act," replied Mr. Moore. "It was passed by President Washington July 4, 1789, and was regarded as an American declaration of commercial independence."

"Did it encourage American manufacturing?" the clerk asked. "It gave confidence and hope and made us a manufacturing and agricultural nation," Moore, the "pupil" replied.

The questions and answers traced tariff legislation from ancient to modern times.

"Why was the Payne bill passed?" Moore was asked. "Because the Democrats were continually misrepresenting the tariff question," was the answer.

"Did it revise the tariff downward?" "It did, and equalized many duties."

"If the people enjoyed such a wonderful program under the Payne law why did they complain?" They listened to ambitious politicians, legislators without conscience, journalistic organs with axes to grind, magazines seeking pap, essayists who found it more profitable to write fiction than to work, theoretical college professors, non-producers and a few sincere reformers usually misinformed and frequently misled.

"The bill introduced by Chairman Underwood, exponent in the House of the theories of President Wilson," was Moore's final at the Administration.

And so the questions and answers ran on.

Mr. Moore charged the Democrats with continually misrepresenting the tariff question.

With only three more days left for general debate on the tariff bill the prospect to-day was that the measure would pass the House and go to the Senate during the first week of May.

Anti-Negro Law Invalid.

BALTIMORE, April 19.—The segregation ordinance, framed to prevent negroes from moving into city blocks already occupied by whites, was declared invalid by Judge Elliott in the Criminal Court yesterday.

Enforcement of the law, he said, would depopulate every block in the city in which black and white families now live.

BABY'S FACE ONE SORE WITH ECZEMA

Cried for Hours, Could Not Sleep.
Resinoid Brought Rest and Cure.

Reading, Pa.—"My baby girl had eczema for over six months. It was painful and itching, she could not sleep day or night, she would scratch till blood and water would run down her neck. Then it burned her so she cried for hours at a time. The right side of her face was one sore and scab."

"I got the sample of Resinoid Soap and Resinoid Ointment on a Saturday morning, and put them on, and put them on again in the afternoon and in the evening before I put her to bed, and she went to sleep and slept till next morning. I thought I was in heaven the first night, and by Monday she was dried up so that all the scabs fell off. Resinoid Soap and Ointment cured my baby."—Mrs. Wm. M. Fletcher, 544 So. 17th St., Aug. 21, 1912.

One Pair Had Dynamite Too and Others Said They Were Hired to Carry Bag.

It was an unlucky Friday for four young men in the Court of Special Sessions who had been convicted of having burglars' tools and dynamite in their possession. The maximum penalty, a year in the penitentiary and a fine of $500, was imposed on each.

Sylvester L. Gray and Francis Clark, each twenty-one years old, of No. 304 West Fifty-sixth street, were arrested April 6 in their room, where were found burglars' tools and dynamite. Policeman McManus had been notified by a roomer in the house that he had heard the two talking in their room and one had told the other to be careful of the dynamite. Clark made a confession to Probation Officer Crimmins and gave information concerning an alleged gang of hotel bell-boy thieves, of which he claimed to be a member.

Charles Mango, twenty years old, of No. 2 Jones street, and John Molinano, nineteen, of No. 141 Sullivan street, were arrested at Macdougall and Houston streets with a bag of burglars' tools. They said they had been hired to carry the bag to the Bowery and Broome street by a man who had approached them in a restaurant and offered to pay well.
